sought in all candor to understand the exact position and all the arguments of the Catholic Church on this subject, and we have no doubt the Hishop has mow made as good a above of argument as any one can make on that sade of the question, but we can not see that the tive long articles give us aughting more, in the way of densing his position and mapporting it, than we had in the pamphlet which we undertook to review at the start. The arguments and objections of these articles are precisely those of the pamphlet, reaffirmed and somewhat extended and the posts as of the Bishop and his bretten, as a abundantly nanidest in both, is one of unyielding and uncompromising opposition to our whole common school system, as at present organised, both in its theory and its practice.

It is unnecessary for us, and it would be tedious class or the other of the alleged fact.

thready watten in our review of the pamphlet.

In reviewing the pamphlet, we charged the Bisbop with accountered in his mode of reasoning, because in his actack upon the public schools of the country he addused facts and arguments to show that they were Protestant and sectarian, thereby infringing the rights of conscience, and also facts and arguments to how that they were pagan and godless, and thus in conflict with Roman Catholic views of education. We said it would be difficult to make good not reasoning, for the two things were income. good not reascuing, to the two things were incompatible and contradictory. To this he replies that "the accommission is all in the writer's fancy." He sava, "We did not attempt to make them (the two charges out together but dispancifiedg," and then sangle reatence at the tirst. But they are not so argued throughout the pamphlet, as any one may passing of an export factor enactment to cover the see, who will take the trouble to read it. We task the case rut as it was disjunctively stated, but as it the old original company, and the new comas a purriedly argued: for if there is any argu-consists of the body of speculator who are latent to ment in the pamphlet at all, it was to prove not onof these charges true singly, and, if not that, then the other singly, but both of them true. And this by paying up the indebtedness for what the decrease of trust was executed, but relies the decrease of trust was executed, but relies the decrease of trust was executed. socome a little and contradict ry. The Bishop had as illegal. Our last advices from Texas, and t a clear to, ical right to state and argue his cause dir Dector's own assurances, lead to the copunctor y if he can fit He might, if so inclined, be will carry out his plans on createdly attreed, with being either religious or irreligious; peace, but his well known er holly secturian and protestant, or wholly secular and pagen. But as these two things—religion and tion he has assumed. The list letters: no respion—are the direct opposites of each other, him hear date Detober Sir; he was a ould not, a writing to any rules of logic we attendance on the courts. The jud know, estail is in them to both as true of the same thing at the same time. But this the pamphlet sought to do by facts and arguments; and it would be difficult to say which charge was the better argued. And even now, after carefully reading the tive articles of the reply, we should be at a loss to say which mount to a weight the same time. The paid or a proving the tive articles of the reply, we should be at a loss to say which mount, but the whole must be paid or an rounit. point the writer has labored most to establish, the before the middle of next mo th to proceed a not protestant character of the schools, or of the road. Such sale would be clesectarian and protestant character of the schools, or their wholly secular pagan and godless character. The aghest the whole series of pamphlet and articles, they are invariably so represented, not distancedly but proceeding now as so sectarian and anti-catholic as to justify a revolution like that of each year, and now as so unblushingly infided and godless as to shame the very heathen.

Now we respectfully submit that these diametrically opposite charges can't tooth be true. There is a logical accessity against it. It may be all true may therefore evaluate to him that an area month.

you can may a thing is black and white at the same time. Hence our call upon the writer to may which ly remit their quots to Mr. E. Il Lewis, the tru time. Hence our citl agon the writer to say which of the two it was. It is not enough to state the case disjunctively, and then go on and argue it conjunctively. You may call it black or call it white, and object to it because it is eake black or white. You may dislike beta black and white, and, as the Bindop ways, "fancy some other color, as green." But you can't reset a thing on the ground that this commany, a member of the commany is member at trimmph over all your can't reset a thing on the ground that this you can't reject a thing on the ground that it is the company's enemies and erry both black and white, religious and Irreligious. terprise to a cucce-sful termination. You may reject it for one or the other, but not for the very establishing of one charge refutee the other. Now it was this wholesale and sweeping condemnation of our school system for being both at bullies, who was made marshal of the Souther smoe intensely Protestant and sectarian according to District of that State as a reward for the crystone count in the inductment, but pagan and godless the Empire Club, is the leading spirit at all can down the system itself—this double charge that our idfield schools were filling the land with vice and immerality and atter indifference to all religion, and at the same time working for the benefit of our Protestant churches against the Catholic—it was this that constituted the dilemma in the Bishop's reasoning which we resisted out, and which we exist Gallatin as follows: reasoning which we pointed out, and which we said

Gallatin as follows:

1 think the officers of the Federa to our elling white and black, and dollking it heartily for both.

He pronounces our objection "an ingenious rophiam;" but at the same time administration in disconnection that it would have been conclusive against him "if there were no other colors benden black and white." Well, if that be all list can save him from the dilemma, then it is conclusive against him anyhow. For, let it be observed, that the defect is only in the Hustration, not in the thing itself. He may excuse from the all-colors be dilemma, then the thing itself. He may excuse from the sales of the power o observed, that the defect is only in the illustration, not in the thing itself. He may escape from the alternative of white or black under cover of a choice of green: but there is no third or intermediate shade between religion and no religion, as there may be in colors. Our illustration is only not quite strong emough to picture the real case. The real dilemma is not about the colors, but about the religion. He cannot face come indid ground between a religion and an irreligious system, and so reject both in preferer or for that. What is that third system midday between religion and on religion, corresponding to the green, which justifies the Bishop in opposing our present school system, whether it be religious or irreligious? According to his own business, the dilemma still remains.

and yet they teach the Protestant religion to such a degree that every Catholic child is an effectually debarred from them as if they

by anyling that can complete against the theory and the other against the practice or administration of our school system. The Bishop has explicit their heads together to receive the Pierce related to the origin of the origin and the origin related to the origin r saying that one charge her against the theory schools that his whole warfare is leveled. He charges as with weaving fine theories, while the practice is different. Says he, "The theory of our public schools is one thing; the practice another over all religious teaching in the achools: the practice, with which wa are more devectly concerned, is wildledy different."

And again, "We apoke throughout our pampllet of the public exhools, not so much in their theory, as in their practice, which for an is a far more important consideration. We did not say that their theory contemplated a gigantic scheme of procelytism, but tant consideration. We did not my that their theory contemplated a rigantic scheme of procelytism, but that they practically reculted in such a scheme."

This is all vary clear, and directly to the point. It is then the practical working of the system, as now going on in the schools, that does all the mischief. gaing on in the schools, that does all the mischief.

This is the "meanter grievance," the double engine of proceedytism and paganism, of intense secturian aceal and cold infidel indifferentism, of religion and no religion. The theory is inert and harmlese; it is of the practice above that these things are predist ted. It is the actual practice, that is filling these achouls with no much Protestantism, that in the writer's estimation, Roman Catholics have as good ground to recist the opprension and tyranny, as our fathers had in taking up arms against British taxasion in the Revolution. And it is this same practice in these same schools that is filling our whole GF Julge McLean delivered an important decision in the U. S. circuit court, sitting at Concinnation Thursday, in the case of Wm. Sturges as 8 Setem. The point was whether railroad companian have a right to issue stock at a price below that massed in the charter. The Hillsborough and Cinvanata Bailroad Company issued and transferred to Wm. Sturges as fifteen thousand shares of stock for $621,677, being less by $218, than the rate ($650 per share) made in the charter. Sturges subsequently transferred that he charter. Sturges subsequently transferred that he charter. Sturges subsequently transferred that here is $1500 which was not taken up. Su ges su-d on the note, and the case was to ace before the circuit court on demartar. The demurrer was overruled, and the validity of the rale by Starges sustained.

FOR FEMALES. A Man Tatta to Chop his time Head Off.—
A correspondent of the Vevay (Ind.) Receible, writing from Carroll county, Ky, makes that a few days since a party of uses were raising a log building one of the company, a young man named. Thomas E Searcey, suddenly left his work and, seeiing an axe, cut several severe gashes on the top of his head. On attampt being made to wrest the waspon from him, he brandished it in the air and threatemed to kill any one who approached him. He thou haid his neck upon a log, and was about to chep his own head off, when his companions managed, after a despirate straggle, to secure him. Searcey is described as being an intelligant, upright man and had never before given evidence of being issue.
